PASCO COUNTY, FL ---- Pasco County is proud to share that the Florida Sterling Council is recognizing six of our team members for their work as Sterling Examiners – including the Examiner Excellence Award – given to only one Sterling Examiner each year. More than 150 Volunteer Examiners serve statewide, supporting the council’s mission of elevating organizational performance excellence. The awards were presented during a virtual Examiner Recognition Ceremony July 17.

“We’re grateful to have our talented team of examiners helping guide our own performance excellence initiatives within Pasco County, while also assisting organizations throughout the state,” said County Administrator Dan Biles.

Amielee Farrell, of Pasco’s Office of Management and Budget, received the Examiner Excellence Award for her contributions in the areas of thought leadership, developing new software training and guidance, and her participation on two assessment teams.

The Florida Sterling Council also named Pasco employees Nilda Meono as the Challenge Assessment Rookie of the Year and Courtney Cooper as the Governor’s Sterling Award Assessment Rookie of the Year. Additionally, Zuzana Bobst, Courtney Cooper, Matthew Hicks and Nilda Meono were promoted from Examiner to Advanced Examiner. Jeffrey Harris was promoted from Advanced Examiner to Senior Examiner, and Amielee Farrell was promoted from Senior Examiner to Lead Examiner.
